FATHER'S COLUMN

"Everything that the Father has is mine;
for this reason I told you that the Spirit will take from what is mine and declare it to you."

The only word that best describes the mystery of the Most Holy Trinity is: RELATIONSHIP. Indeed, God, within his own nature, is relationship. We believe in one God of three persons, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit.

Is it any surprise then, that we, who are created in the image and likeness of God, are so hardwired for relationship? For instance, after birth, a baby who is given food and shelter but does not receive loving human interaction will fail to develop normally. From the very beginning of our lives, our relationships are our greatest joy and also can cause us the deepest sorrow.

In the readings for this Sunday, we hear how God lives out this triune relationship. In Proverbs, Wisdom is personified, identified later with both Jesus and the Holy Spirit, and Wisdom brings joy to God, the creator. Wisdom is God's companion and delight.

In the second reading, the Holy Spirit conveys the love between Father and Son, just as in the Gospel the Spirit gives truth. Could this combination of joy, love, and truth serve as a blueprint for our own relationships?

Again, all relationships require celebration. In our world where so much revolves around transactions, we need time in relationships where we simply enjoy the other. We know, too, that all relationships require love, whether it is the relationship between spouses, parents and children, friends, or coworkers.

Within the Trinity, this love is dynamic and constantly outpouring. Relationships also demand truth, especially an authentic sharing of oneself with the other. From the very beginning of our lives within the womb, we have experienced relationship; the relationship with God and the relationship with other humans. On this feast of the Holy Trinity let us rededicate ourselves to living out our relationships in joy, love, and truth.
